BOLD ATTEMPT TO KIDNAP BABY

STRANGE WOMAN THROWS ACID
IN FACE OF MRS. TOM EADS
BUT MOTHER SAVES CHILD

Although blinded by acid thrown into her eyes by a woman kidnaper Mrs. Thomas Eads, a prominent young matron of this county, fought so desperately for possession of her year old son about noon Thursday, that her assailant was forced to leave without the tiny bit of human booty sought, and to seek hasty flight in a big automobile which was waiting handy.

All yesterday afternoon Mrs. Eads' husband, his father J. D. Eads, one of the most prominent farmers of Lincoln county, and Sheriff W. L. McCarty and his deputies kept telephone wires in all directions through Central Kentucky hot in an effort to intercept a big yellow automobile and a well dressed man and woman who were balked in their well laid kidnapping plans only by the ferocity of a mother's love.

Young Mr. Eads and his wife reside about five miles from Stanford on a branch of the pike to Hustonville, near Turnersville and near Peyton's Well. Mr. Eads had been away all morning, and left his young wife and their baby alone at home. Shortly before noon a well dressed man came to the door and inquired of Mrs. Eads if her husband was at home. On being informed that he was not, the stranger expressed regret, and said that with her permission he would look at some cattle in a neighboring pasture. She saw no more of him.

The baby became sleepy, so the mother was rocking him to sleep before preparing dinner, when she heard the noise of an automobile on the pike, a short distance in front of the house, and looking out saw a big yellow car pass, containing a man and woman, the latter handsomely dressed so much so that she attracted Mrs. Eads' particular attention. She was hushing her infant to sleep again when the woman who had just passed in the machine came to her door and asked the permission to sit and rest while her husband attended to some business down the road.

Mrs. Eads readily gave her permission, and the visitor immediately became apparently greatly interested in the baby.

As Mrs. Eads undertook to lay him on a bed in another room, the woman followed her in and seemed desirous of getting her hands on the child. She soon left and Mrs. Eads went into the kitchen to prepare the noon-day meal. In a short time she detected a faint creaking of the screen door in front and instantly realized that some one was opening it. She hastened out and confronted her woman visitor of a few moments before.

Very glibly the woman explained that in putting the baby on the bed, a handsome diamond pin had probably become fastened in his little dress, and she had come back to look for it. The mother went with her into the room where the child lay asleep. The stranger poked the baby up, and as she did so, began to glance hurriedly from one door to another, at the same time quickly fumbling in a handbag which swung at her waist.

Mrs. Eads became alarmed at her actions, and reached for the baby, and caught its dress. Meanwhile, the strange woman pulled a small flat out of her handbag and as the mother caught hold of her child the second time, the stranger dashed the full contents of the bottle into her face.

The pain was severe. Mrs. Eads could hardly see, but in a frenzy she pulled the baby away from the stranger and in agony ran through the kitchen out the rear door of the house, to the cabin of a negro couple some distance away. The negro woman was at home, and fearing for her small pickaninny playing on the floor, bolted the door, and not until her husband returned home about an hour later was the alarm given and assistance to the injured woman summoned. Mr. Eads came quickly but no trace of the would-be kidnappers could be seen. The woman had evidently hurried away the instant that she saw her plan foiled by the mother.

A physician who examined Mrs. Eads' injuries soon afterwards found that her left eye had received most of the contents of the bottle. He pronounced it diluted sufficiently it is believed, to have blinded Mrs. Eads temporarily until her baby could be spirited away but not strong enough to permanently impair her sight.

Mrs. Eads was able to give a very accurate description of her strange visitor, for she was struck with the stylishness of her garments, her jewelry and diamonds and her general air of refinement and culture. She had instantly recognized her as the woman who had passed in the automobile with a man a few moments before she appeared at her home. The officers believe that the couple are certain to be caught within a few hours.

Mrs. Eads and her baby were brought to town to the residence of her aunt and uncle, Mr. and Mrs. A. C. Carman last night where she will stay until she recovers from her injuries and the effects of such a harrowing experience. Before her marriage to Mr. Eads she was Miss Nettie Waller, a daughter of Capt. J. P. Waller, of Louisville, a well-known engineer on the L. & N.

He has been the pastor here for about a year, having come from Todd county.

Thrown Off and Hurt

EX-SHERIFF HILL'S HORSE SCAR-ED BY AN AUTO.

Former Sheriff T. J. Hill was badly bruised and shaken up by being thrown from his saddle horse Wednesday, which took fright at Mr. Harry Jacobs, of McKinney's new automobile, on the Milledgeville pike, a few miles from town.

The automobile was coming toward Mr. Hill and he pulled his steed out of the way to give it room to pass. Mr. Jacobs is a careful driver and was not coming fast. Just before the auto reached him, however, Mr. Hill's horse gave a sudden swerve and jumped directly into the path of the oncoming machine, with its back toward it. It was impossible to stop it, so it struck the animal and it gave a leap, throwing Mr. Hill off and in front of the car. The brakes had been applied, however, so that the car was stopped before Mr. Hill's prostrate body was reached. It was found that luckily no bones were broken, but he was considerably shaken up and was brought to his home in town.

Adams-Dye

POPULAR YOUNG COUPLE ARE MARRIED IN CASEY.

A happy courtship of four years was joyously ended on Thursday Aug. 11 when Prof. James W. Dye and Miss Mamie Adams, a prominent young society couple of Middleburg, were united in the holy bonds of wedlock, the venerable Rev. Joshua S. Taylor officiating. The young couple are well and popularly known over Casey and Lincoln counties; and their legion of friends of this section will be glad to hear of their happy union for life.

The same minister, who is now past three-score-and-ten and a veteran of the Civil war, officiated at the marriage ceremonies of the parents and maternal grandparents of the groom.

The bride is a daughter of the late John S. Adams—and Mrs. Mary A. Adams, of Middleburg, and is a popular young school teacher of Casey and Lincoln counties. She is pretty and accomplished—and a talented musician. The bride is a near relative of the late Col. Silas Adams, of Casey, and formerly representative in Congress from the Eleventh district; also a cousin of Hon. Napier Adams, Clerk of the Court of Appeals.

The groom who is one of the best known young men of Casey is the only child of Postmaster, George W. Dye of Middleburg, and a grandson of the late Dr. J. T. Wesley, of Middleburg. His mother died about three years ago. Maj. G. Wat Dye and Dr. O. S. Wesley, of Danville are near relatives of the groom. He was educated in the public schools, of Middleburg and Frankfort, the Bowling Green Business College and is a graduate of a Commercial College of Columbus, O. He taught in the public schools of Casey and later, on the death of his mother, succeeded her as postmaster at Middleburg.

Prof. Dye at present is at the head of the Commercial department of the Stanford (Kansas) High school. Before locating in the West he held a similar position with the Bristol (Tenn.-Va.) Commercial College.

They will visit friends and relatives in Danville, Lexington, Ludlow and Louisville, Ky., and St. Joseph and St. Louis, Mo., and will be at home in Stanford, Kansas, after September 1st.

POLITICS WARMING UP IN GEORGIA

ED WALTON WRITES ANOTHER INTERESTING LETTER FROM ATLANTA.

Atlanta, Ga., Aug. 18.
The gubernatorial race is on in earnest and much interest is being manifested. There are three entries, but the race is between present Gov. Brown and ex-Gov. Smith. A gentleman named Walker thinks he is running but he isn't. Ex-Gov. Smith spoke to an audience of 8,000 to 10,000 people a few nights ago and I never saw more enthusiasm than was apparent. Men yelled themselves hoarse, threw their hats away and did many other foolish things. It will be remembered that Gov. Brown defeated Mr. Smith two years ago for the gubernatorial nomination after a most exciting race in which much feeling was injected, but I predict the situation, of course, but I predict he will defeat Mr. Smith by an increased majority on the 23rd of this month. Looks like to me the people are for Smith and the politicians for Brown and my observation is that the politicians generally win. My brother Mr. T. R. Walton, well-known to most of the I. J. readers, is a Brown man but I have little or no choice between them. I could not vote here even if I were so inclined. The registration requires voters to register six months before primaries and regular elections. Another race that is attracting lots of attention is that for the democratic nomination for Congress. Present Incumbent Lon Livingston is being opposed by William Schley Howard, at present Solicitor, Commonwealth's Attorney, as we Kentuckians would say. Mr. Livingston who is an old Confederate soldier has been in Congress for many years and has done good work for his constituents. In fact there are those who charge that he is better at getting things for Atlanta and her people than he is at voting with the democrats. His opponents oppose that he is Czar Cannon's right hand bower and goes hand in hand with the Wall Street gang. The indications are that Mr. Livingston will serve at least one more term in the lower house at Washington.

A prominent and popular citizen of Atlanta is Mr. John R. Brooks, formerly of Crab Orchard, and brother of Will A. Brooks, known and admired by everybody in Stanford. He married a Miss Grimes, of Harrodsburg, and they have a beautiful home on Highland avenue, an excellent portion of the city. Their charming little daughter Miss Zilpah Brooks, is visiting relatives in Central Kentucky now. Mr. Brooks is connected with several big concerns here and is making good in all of them.

The Sovereign Grand Lodge, I. O. O. F., convenes here the latter portion of this month and great preparations will be made to entertain the delegates. I hope the Stanford Lodge No. 155 will send representative or so and they will not forget that an old friend of theirs is still in the "Gate City" and wants see any and all who come here from Stanford. Odd fellows are pretty numerous here and the order has been the source of much good.

I have embarked in the grocery business and have a right nice little store at 110 Richardson Street just around the corner from our home. I am not trying to do very much and am succeeding. Claiborne assists me and he and I run the business alone. He is by odds a better merchant than I am and but for his having to go to school early in September, I would turn the business over to him. He knows far more people than I do and has some lady customers who won't let me wait on them under any circumstances.

We still peruse the Interior Journal with great interest and have only one fault with it and that is, it does not come often enough. Wish Editor Sautley would follow in the footsteps of the Danville Advocate and issue a daily. Several death notices in its columns have caused sadness to us but the good news "cheapest and best" brings out weights the unwelcome items. Am glad to see the advertising patronage holding up so well. It means that the merchants are abreast with the times and that the Interior is a first-class advertising medium. Atlanta merchants believe in the use of printer's ink and advertise in no other way save in the columns of the several daily papers here.

The negroes held a musical festival here last week that attracted much attention. The great prima donnas of the African race were here and they yelled loud and long. The festival was a decided success and others will be held yearly. The great auditorium was used and the seating capacity was taxed.

I used to greatly enjoy going to the fairs and many times I have thought of "old Kaintuck" since the fair season began. I am not exactly home sick but just want "see the old folks at home" you know. I see from the papers that the same old blue tie wearers are doing business. I wonder how a fair would look without Mack Hughes, Charley Sandridge, Mack Cohen and many others I have seen in the fair rings since I was a child? And too I wonder if when these gentlemen get too old to ride and drive if the fair enterprise would lose some interest to the public?

Speaking of fairs, Atlanta will have a great one early in October. I hope to see some Lincoln county horses and horsemen here. I believe the former can win anywhere and it would do me very good to see my old countrymen carry off the honors of the day. I hope to see many Central Kentucky horsemen here during the gala fair week.

The Legislature adjourned Wednesday after a very dull and unprofitable session. The body was pretty well divided between Smith and Brown men and the fear of helping one side or hurting the other kept down any good work that might have been accomplished. It would be a great thing for the democratic party of Georgia if both Smith and Brown could be relegated to the rear and a good conservative man placed in the gubernatorial chair. Until both the Brown and Smith factions are eliminated there will be trouble in democratic ranks in Georgia.

E. C. WALTON.

High Tribute

TO VALIANT MORGAN'S MAN
PAID BY JUDGE ALCORN

Judge J. W. Alcorn and several other Confederates of Lincoln county and this section, have just returned from Park's Hill, Nicholas county, where they attended the annual reunion of Morgan's Men. At the call of the roll, when the name of Judge M. C. Sautley, of Stanford the second vice president of the association, was called, Judge Alcorn, of Stanford, arose and briefly addressed Gen. Duke and the comrades, in which he feelingly and touchingly announced the sudden death of Judge Sautley at his home last Friday. He paid a brief but impressive tribute to his departed comrade, and said that only a short time ago in discussing with some comrades the certainty of death ever long, he said that Judge Sautley said that he had but one request to make, and that was that when he died that a Confederate flag be laid upon his breast. Judge Alcorn stated that that request was carried out and Judge Sautley was buried with the "stars and bars" resting upon his bosom.

Gen. B. W. Duke was re-elected president and Green R. Keller re-elected Secretary, and all other officers of the association were re-elected. Col. Hawthorn was elected third Vice President to fill the vacancy caused by the death of Judge Sautley. The rank of General was conferred by the association upon Col. Green R. Keller and Col. H. M. Whenever another newspaper has opposed candidates the Frankfort News was for, that paper has generally claimed the candidates were "abused." The way the News is now daily abusing Secretary George G. Speer, of the Capital Fair because he has failed to give it any advertising, is enough to make every decent newspaper man blush with shame. We know Mr. Speer well. He hails originally from Anderson county, is a high-class gentleman made a splendid secretary of the Capital Fair last year and made a decided success of the first year's fair; and at that time the news, thought so and said so. There must have been some mighty good reasons why the News is not enjoying advertising patronage from the Capital fair this year, for Mr. Speer and the directors are numbered among the most progressive citizens of Frankfort. Anyway, the "holier" the News is making about it and its abuse of Secretary Speer gives us that tired feeling, and we don't believe that the News' mouthings are going to hurt the Capital fair.

If the delegates to the Tenth District Congressional Convention, held in this city, represented the sentiments of their respective counties and it is reasonable to suppose they did, Senator McCreary will get the instruction of every county in the Tenth district for Governor, says the Mt. Sterling Sentinel Democrat. A number of delegates told us that it was hard to find a democrat in the mountains that was opposed to McCreary and that all agreed that he was the man to redeem Kentucky. All Tuesday morning delegates flocked to Senator McCreary's at the National Hotel and pledged him their support. Senator McCreary was accompanied here by his friend Thomas J. Smith, Richmond, one of the most genial and popular men in the State.

From the knockouts Theodore Roosevelt is receiving at the hands of New York republicans, it begins to look like, that the mighty one cannot "come back." The New York Republican Committee by a decisive vote refused to elect him chairman of the convention, soon to be held.

Be it enacted by the General Assembly of the Commonwealth of Kentucky: 1. That it shall be unlawful for anyone to obstruct the water tables of a turnpike or any public road by putting a crossing, either private or public, over the water tables of a public road without providing a culvert or drain pipe of sufficient dimension to carry the full volume of water that may drain in this water table or to curb it so as not to impede the full flow of water. It shall also be unlawful to plant trees, telephone poles or fences in or closer than 1-2 feet of the outer edge of the ditch, so that a piece of machinery may be used in making, widening or deepening them. Any fencing, tree or stone falling into a water table or rolling down from above into it, shall be removed within five days by the owner of the land of which the obstruction was a part or any person not an owner trimming trees or cutting weeds or briars, or any person placing any other obstruction in water table, shall be liable for all damage done by turning water into the road-bed, and also to a fine of two dollars for each day the obstruction has laid in the ditch longer than five days.

2. It shall be the duty of the road overseer or county surveyor of roads to report every misdemeanor under this act with all the evidence he may collect to the Magistrate in whose district that part of the road may lay on the penalty of being indicted by the first grand jury for misdemeanor in office, and on conviction expelled from his office.

3. Any water table that may wash out deeper than necessary to carry the volume of water drained and undermining the road-bed or adjacent property by the permission of overseer or road supervisor, the ditch may be filled or dammed to its proper size.

4. In making or repairing any part of a public road one sixth or more of all money so spent shall be used for the drainage of said road by making water tables and placing culverts or drain pipes of suitable number and size.

Approved March 24th, 1910.

The Island of Regeneration

prison, she forgot the storm, she forgot the world. She only realized that there out in the dawn, a man, the man of all the world, who loved her was calling her name. The old call of manhood to womanhood, of mate to mate.

She rose instantly to her feet. This time it was the beating of her heart that pitched and tossed her body. She leaned against the rock wall and then she called his name.

"Man," she cried, "are you safe?" "Yes," was the answer. "And you?"

"Entirely so, save for this prison." "Thank God!" came faintly to her from beyond the wall. "Thank God, I hear your voice. I shall have you out, never fear."

She pressed her ear close to the heap of huge loose stones which filled the opening. She could hear him working outside.

"Don't be afraid," he said at last. "I fear nothing," she answered, "if you are there."

In one instant the situations of life had been reversed. He was the master now and she hung upon his words and actions even as he had done in days gone by.

She had no knowledge of what task was before him, but she could hear the progress that he was making. It was evident that he was working furiously, and yet he stopped once in every little while to reassure himself as to her presence.

"Woman," he cried, "are you still there?"

"Here and waiting," was the answer.

He needed that assurance of her safety to enable him to achieve his prodigious task. How terrible were the efforts he put forth, she did not know until afterward, but his was the work of a Titan. He was moving mountains with his bare hands. Inspired by love, mightiest of passions, he was tearing asunder, like the earthquake, the rocky foundations of the world. Well for him that he was so thewed and sinewed. Well for her that God had added strength and power and energy to all his other splendid qualities. He had never done any work in his life harder than the climbing of a tree, but no toiler with a heritage of earth's whole experience of labor could have struggled as did he.

He had been awakened at the self-same instant in his lonely cell upon the other side of the island. With the first shock he remembered that some time in his days of darkness before she came there had been a similar upheaval. He realized instantly what it was. Less timorous than the woman, more agile, he did not lie supine for a single second. His thoughts were instantly for her. He had thrown himself from his cave and had raced across the shaking, quivering island without the hesitation of a moment. Never so long as he might live could he forget the shock that came to him when he saw his way to her barred by that great heap of rock, fallen from the face of the cliff, which lay over the entrance to the cave. For one moment he had stood appalled and then he had got to work. How much time had elapsed before he arrived at her door, how much time it took him to clear it away, he had no idea. He had no thought but that he must open a passage and get to her dead or alive.

It was not wise for him to expend breath in cries, but until he had some reply he could not keep silent. After that, when her answer came to him, he worked more quietly, save for those periods when he felt that he must hear her voice to enable him to go on. Such was the furious energy of his toil that by and by the great mass of rock was cleared away save one huge boulder which fairly blocked the entrance. It was light outside now. A gray dawn and full of storm. Through the wider interstices she could see him plainly. She knew now that her rescue was only a matter of time. A branch of a tree for a lever and his strength would roll the rock away. She started to tell him but he caught a glimpse of her white face pressed against a crevice and the sight inspired him. With a great burst of strength, the like of which possibly had never been compassed by mortal man since Samson pulled apart the pillars of the temple, he rolled the great rock aside and stood in the entrance, gasping, panting, with outstretched arms.

But a step divided them. That step she took. With a sob of relief she fell upon his breast, naturally, inevitably. His splendid arms swept her close to him. Her own hands met about his neck. With upturned face she looked upon him in all the abandonment of perfect passionate surrender. He bent his head and kissed her, the first time in all his years that his lips had been pressed upon another mouth. He clung to her there in that kiss as if to make up in one moment for all the neglected possibilities of the past, as if never in all the bringings forth of the future should such another opportunity be afforded him. He felt for the first time in his life the beat of another human heart against his own, the rise and fall of another human breast, the throbbing of another human soul. Tighter and tighter his arms strained her to him. She gave herself up in that mad, delirious, awful moment to the full flow of long checked passion, and kiss for kiss, pressure for pressure, and heart beat for heart beat, she made response.

It was too much. It was the man who broke away. There was nothing, no experience, no remembrance to teach him. It was all surprise. He thrust her from him slowly. Her hands lingered about his neck, but his backward pressure would not be denied. He held her at arms' length, her hands outstretched to him, her bosom panting, her eyes shining, her cheeks aflame in the gray dawn. Yielding, giving up to him absolutely, yet something, the magnificent metal of the man, the restraints through which he had gone, the long battles with his own passion, rose to his soul and gave him mastery once more.

"Woman! woman!" he whispered—no mere local name would represent her now. She was humanity to him—"Woman," he whispered, "my God! my God!"

He turned away, sank down on one of the great boulders that he had thrown aside and buried his face in his hands, his body shaking with emotions he could scarce define but well understood. The woman threw herself down on her knees before him and took him once more in her arms.

"Man," she said, "I love you!"

She drew his hands away from his face; she laid her own face in his bleeding palm and kissed it.

"Man," she said, her lips wet with his own blood in a sort of wild, barbaric sacrament, "man, I love you!"

He stared at her as one distraught. He had dreamed of this, he had imagined it, he had prayed for it, he had hoped for it, but no revelation that had come to him in the years of their association equaled in its blinding brilliancy, in its intense illumination, the revelation in that woman's voice, in that woman's eyes, in that woman's touch.

"Man," she said again, "I love you. Do you understand! Do you know what it means?"

Then he found his voice. He took her hand and pressed it against his heart.

"I know," he whispered. "I understand here."

He rose to his feet, stooped, caught her by the shoulders and lifted her to his level. A piece of rock ill balanced on the edge of the cliff fell crashing. The place was dangerous. Without a word he slipped his arm beneath her, lifted her up as he might have done a child and carried her out upon the sand away from the beetling crags of the rocky wall. She nestled in his arms with a sense of joy and satisfaction and helplessness cared for so exquisite that it was almost pain. He sat her down presently on the sand and knelt before her. The sunlight sprang through the gray haze on the horizon's edge and lighted her face as he peered into it. Suddenly he threw himself prostrate before her and his lips upon her feet.

"Not there," she whispered, laying her hand upon his bent head, "but here, here in my arms, upon my heart, for Man, Man, I love you!"

Mr. V. M. Tanner who attended the Blue Grass fair at Lexington, brought home with him a piece of aeroplane which "flew" during the exhibition there. WON'T NEED A CRUTCH

When editor J. P. Sossman, of Cornwell, N. C., bruised his leg badly it started an ugly sore. Many salves and ointments proved worthless. Then Bucklen's Arnica Salve healed it thoroughly. Nothing is so prompt and sure for Ulcers, Bolls, Burns, Bruises, Cuts, Corns, Sores, Pimples, Eczema or piles. 25c at Penny's Drug Store.

ECZEMA—A GERM DISEASE CAN NOW BE CURED

The medical profession is all agreed that Eczema is a germ disease, but the thing that has baffled them is to find some remedy that will get to the germs and destroy them.

Zemo, the clean, external treatment, has solved this difficulty by drawing the germs to the surface of the skin and destroying the germ life that causes the diseases. The whole method of treatment and cure by Zemo is explained in an interesting book on the subject issued by the makers of Zemo. It tells how to cure yourself at home of Eczema, Blackheads, Pimples, Dandruff and all diseases of the skin and scalp. Call at Penny's Drug Store for booklet and learn more about this clean, simple remedy that is now recognized the standard treatment for all diseases of the skin and scalp.

Free Liver Remedy

It is well to stop a physical ailment at the first signs of its approach, and that is especially true of liver trouble, which can eventually give rise to so many serious complications. Many have liver trouble and imagine it is indigestion, and hence take the wrong remedy.

When the liver does not store up sufficient bile, it becomes sluggish, and in this way disturbs the stomach and bowels, with which it is supposed to work in harmony. Then comes the sallow complexion, the phlegmy face, the dull pain in the forehead, the thinning of the blood, etc. A very quick and sensible way to stop the trouble as well as to cure it is by the use of Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin, which contains ingredients especially intended to promote the activity of the liver.

Among the many thousands who have written the doctor about the results achieved with his remedy, and who are glad to make the facts public so that others can help themselves, are Mr. Jas. Kennedy, St. Louis, Mo., Mrs. S. A. La Rue of Smith's Grove, Ky., and many others.

These, like thousands of others, started the use of Syrup Pepsin with a sample. If you will send your name and address you can also obtain a free trial bottle. This will prove to you that liver trouble is promptly cured with this remedy, or money will be refunded. Having tried it you can then buy it in the regular way at your druggist at fifty cents and one dollar a bottle, and the latter is sufficient for an entire family.

This remedy is a vast improvement over cathartic tablets and salts, which only do good for the time being. Syrup Pepsin is permanent in its results, is pleasant to take and does not grip. It is especially good for all those who cannot stand a violent purgative. Dr. Caldwell personally will be pleased to give you any medical advice you may desire for yourself or family pertaining to the stomach, liver or bowels absolutely free of charge. Explain your case in a letter and he will reply to you in detail. For the free sample simply send your name and address on a postal card or otherwise. For either request the doctor's address to Dr. W. B. Caldwell, R. 500 Caldwell building, Monticello, Ill.

PRESIDENT HELPS ORPHANS

Hundreds of orphans have been helped by the President of the Industrial and Orphans' Home at Macon, Ga., who writes: "We have used Electric Bitters in this institution for nine years. It has proved a most excellent medicine for stomach, liver and kidney troubles. We regard it as one of the best family medicines on earth." It invigorates all vital organs, purifies the blood, aids digestion, creates appetite. To strengthen and build up pale, thin, weak children or rundown people it has no equal. Best for female complaints. Only 50c at Penny's drug store.

"GET BUSY"
